The Cologn: Gazette, answering the Westminster Gazette's inquiry as to where and when the German Chan-cellor has stated Germany's readiness for peace, points out to the Lon-don paper that on Dec. 9, 1915, and again on April 5, 1916, the Chancellor expressed Germany's desire for peace in Reichstag speeches.

The English press, the Cologne newspaper recalls, received these speeches with scorn. The Gazette repeats that the Chancellor pointed out Harden, noted German publicist, in the latest issue of his magazine, Zukunft.

"The time has come to choose between methods involving the renunciation of the remainder of the human race and the return to reason," continued Harden. "Arms can end the war at best by an armistice. The whole nation must prohibit the use of weapons unlikely to bring the war to a proper end."

Harden renews his criticism of those Germans who have attacked the United States for sending muni-

GEN. SCOTT REPORTS OBREGON SATISFIED: CABINET IS HOPEFUL.

WASHINGTON, May 16. - Gen. WASHINGTON, May 16.—Gen. to be governed entirely by the RootScott's formal report on his border Takahira agreement. The change is that President Shonts first tried to get conferences with Gen. Obregon, laid understood to be satisfactory to the before the Cabinet to-day, led off.—State Department and to Japan.

F. Stevens, saying the fee of $2,000,000 cials to believe a satisfactory working agreement practically has been reached between the United States and the de facto government.

After the Cabinet meeting it was reiterated that no armed intervention was in prospect and that the situation was apparently improving.

Information laid before the Cabine was to the effect that the Carranza Government was making headway in controlling the country and in establishing civil government and was becoming stronger.

One fact to-day stood out above all others in the minds of officials, as a result of the Scott-Obregon parleys. This was Scott's positive belief that Obregon has become convinced that the punitive expedition has but a single purpose—ending of border banditry. Gen. Scott also reported:

rhat Obregon had agreed to provide 10,000 of the most controllable Mexican soldiers under Gen. Trevino to patrol the Parral and Big Bend districts.

That Obregon had agreed the Big Bend Carranzistas in Pulpit Pass, which recently gave army men some uneasiness, would not get back of Gen. Pershing's line.

That the Carranzistas would pursue the Bouquillas and Glen Springs raiders and attempt to deliver the American captive, Deemer, safely.

Scott informed the Secretary that in his judgment the situation is now better than it has been for weeks. For a time, it is admitted, the situation was none too optimistic, but Scott now believes the situation is very good, particularly in view of Obregon's pledges.

A new plan for patrolling of the border has been recommended by Gen. Funston. He proposed corps of forty-eight motorcycles, thirty tandem and eighteen single machines. Secre-Funston. He proposed corps of for-ty-eight motorcycles, thirty tandem and eighteen single machines. Socre-tary Baker said to-day he would prob-ably approve the plan. Gen. Funston will make El Paso the base of oper-ations for the motorcycle scouts. Use of motorcycles would enable the patrols to cover much more quickly and more often a longer section of boundary, particularly in isolated boundary, particularly in isolated districts, and also enable officers to receive reports more expeditiously from small outposts distant from headquarters.

first came up before the Interborough Board of Directors, has been trying for two months to delve into the books of the Gilespies, especially into the records of $800,000 the firm sent to its Pittsburgh office during the third-tracking period ..

The committee knows that that amount was sent to Pittsburgh, but can't find out what became of it after that. There is testimony in the record of two former Interborough directors F. Stevens, saying the fee of $2,000,000 was "to meet and pay certain comm ments and obligations entered into during the negotiations that led up to the dual contracts."

The Gillespies have thus far kept their books from being searched. T. A. Gillespie remained in Florida for his health until recently. His son, T. H. Gillespie, vice president of the company, appeared on the witness stand a score of times, with Paul D. Cravath, Metropolitan Street Railway Company, Wescott of New Jersey—"not reflecting the attitude of the Gillespies," the lawyer explained, "but just to worry Mr. Moss a little." Mr. Wescott writes, Feb. 8, 1916, that he believes "the powers of a joint legislative committee expire with the final adjournment of the Legislature." In confirmation has Legislature." In confirmation he cites cases in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Kansas.
